The marriage of Miss Alma Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Schmidt and Mr. Otto Dierichs, of Bochum, Germany, was celebrated last evening at the home of the bride's parents, on North New Jersey street, in the presence of the relatives and most intimate friends. As the harpist played the wedding march from by the hanging gasoline lamps. Notwith-"Lohengrin" the bridal party entered the parlor. The only attendants were Miss Julia Schmidt, a sister, and Miss Elsa clared an effort would be Reyer, a niece of the bride, who wore gowns of white swiss and carried baskets of flowers. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr. Stern, of the German Reformed Church. The party stood before a bank of paims and flowers placed between the lace draped windows. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white organdie over white swiss, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and she carried a loose cluster of Bride roses A filmy veil enveloped her graceful figure. As the ceremony proceeded the harpist the workers have been subjected to the played "O. Promise Me." very softly. The several rooms of the house were decorated with palms and flowers. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served in the yard under a large canopy. All the toasts were responded to during the supper. In some cases shafts and tongues were hoisted out of the way, but in other cases they lay flat upon the pavement, obstructing about twenty feet of the roadway. Even when the shafts are raised from the ground they are a menace to bicyclists and drivers of vehicles, who cannot discern them in the shadows of the electric lamps. Inquiry among the farmers gathered there elicited the information that they come to town early in order to drive slowly and keep their horses from being overheated. Besides this, they are anxious to find good stalls in the livery stable and are by no means indifferent to securing advantageous stations for their wagons. A good many of the farmers wholesale their truck to small dealers, and not infrequently they leave the street long efore the crowds throng to the markets. Delaware street is not regarded as being as desirable, owing to the street car tracks which occupy its center. Some grumbling is done by other farmers who do not get here until after midnight, when they find all the best space gone.

RAISED TWO-DOLLAR BILLS

William Cogil, of Greenwood, Before Federal Authorities.

William Cogil, of Greenwood, was given hearing before United States Commissioner Van Buren yesterday on a charge of passing counterfeit money and was held in $500 bond to await the action of the grand jury. Cogil passed two two-dollar bills, raised to $20, upon a citizen of Green- | wood. He afterward redeemed them when returned. it was discovered that they were raised. When arrested he had three of the bills in ossession. Cogil explains the case by saying that he came to Indianapolis April with a load of hay and left his wagon all night on the hay market. When he returned next morning, he says he found a pocketbook containing three twenty-dollar oills. On April 20 a man named George Bennett was arrested in this city for passing bills exactly like these found upon

SALVATION ARMY PEOPLE HAVE A TOUGH EXPERIENCE.

Small Panic Caused by Cutting a Tent Rope-Police Indifferent to the Whole Affair.

A crowd of East-end hoodlums made efforts last night to interrupt and break up the services in the Salvation Army tent, corner of Washington and Noble streets. At the beginning of the service the side flaps of the tent were left up, but the young toughs, to the extent of several hundred, who gathered around, soon made it Miss Virginia Hoster, of Chicago, is vis- impossible to continue the service. When a hymn was sung they took up the chorus, singing ribald words to the tune. When members of the army attempted to speak they were interrupted by loud words of left the tent blowing a police whistle. There was momentary consternation among the rowdies, but they resumed their boisterous conduct a few moments after a police offiville, after attending the Goldberg-Block | cer left. The officer ordered the whistle stopped and remarked that if people outside were disturbing the meeting the army could close in the tent. Seeing that they would have to rely upon themselves, this were other guests from New York, Chicago suggestion was followed by the soldiers. The side flaps were lowered on three sides of the tent and the captain said that those

Some of the women were compelled to order a gang of noisy, insolent boys outside the tent. An effort was then made to resume the services, without much success. Several hundred men were standing about and tried to drown the voice of the singers and speakers inside. Amidst the din the services continued. One young man cut a guy rope stretched from one of the short poles. In a moment the canvas sagged down and the collapse of the entire tent seemed imminent. A number of women, carrying children in their arms. rushed out, fearing that the tent would fall down on them, perhaps to be set on fire standing this, the singing continued. The captain, a piucky woman, as her coolness under the circumstances demonstrated, desouls, "even if the tent flopped down to the center poles." She also announced, for the benefit of the half drunken men and boys outside, that uniess the soldiers are afforded some protection, the tent will be kept closed at night hereafter so that curious spectators cannot know and see what is going on inside.

The tent of the Salvation Army was moved to East Washington street from Kentucky avenue last Friday. Since then same annoyances they experienced at the former place. After soliciting for police protection, the army was assured that special police powers would be granted to anyone they might select. Now the average free-silver Democrat does not like to give up coin of any kind for campaign funds or anything else, and they naturally resent this effort to reduce their enthusiasm for "the cause" to a point where it can be measured in paltry money and by the gold standard, too. "They can kick all they want to," said one of Holt's friends yesterday, "but they will find him doing business right in the committee rooms until the end of the campaign. QUESTION OF BANK STOCK

Again Bobs Up Before the State Tax Board.

The State Board of Tax Commissioners was in session all day yesterday listening to appeals from the county boards of review. Charles Devoll, of Lebanon, owns ninety-one shares of stock in the First National Bank of that city, and claims the right to offset his indebtedness against it. This brings up the question of whether bank stock is to be held to be personal property or a credit in the contemplation of the tax board, and the board will take legal advice before deciding. Henry Rotherman was before the board claiming that his property should not be taxed. He has given it over to his church and the church. in return, has granted him an annulty of $400 a year. He claims that it is, therefore, church property and should not be taxed.

Pierre Gray appeared for the First National Bank of Noblesville, which claims that the Hamilton County Board of Review placed too high a valuation upon its stock. The Harter & Hafer Coal Company, of Sullivan, produced testimony to show that it had been appraised at too high a figure at home. Kell & Galligan, of Worthington, claimed that their stock of merchandise had been assessed at more than it was worth. Otto Carr, county assessor of Vigo, wanted the franchise of the Cen-tral Union Telephone Company, of Terre Haute, assessed at $50,000, but changed his mind after he got here and dismissed his appeal

GLENALVIN'S FINE STICK WORK.

Two Triples, Two Doubles and Four

Singles His Record in Two Games. The Indianapolis team succeeded in breaking the hearts of 2,500 ardent supporters yesterday by failing to hold onto what belonged to them. It was a new trait they developed yesterday-that of letting games slip away from them in the last inning-and if ever a more thoroughly disappointed and disgusted crowd left a ball park there is no record of it here. Both games were extra-inning affairs and each was remarkable for the outfield work done by the visitors. Nicol in center field had eighteen putouts in the twenty innings -nine each game. Glenalvin had a big batting day. In ten times at the bat he got eight hits-two triples, two doubles and four singles. Tuesday "Glen" got three hits in three times at bat, so he managed to lift his average very materially while here. The "fans" took to applauding him for his fine stick work yesterday. It won the first game for Milwaukee and virtually tied the econd. "Glen" has certainly been a terror to the Indianapolis pitchers. Shannon did some very clever work at short, accepting eighteen out of nineteen chances, several of them very hard ones.

ble getting hits. They gave the Brewers plenty to do in the field, but it was hard to land the ball in safe territory. Barnes kept them guessing in the first game and in the second it took them five long, weary innings to size up Borchers, who should have been a mark for them. He was wild and Watkins's men should have chased him out of the box, but he stuck right to them and his team did the rest. Davis was wild enough in the opening inning of the first game to give the Brewers a good lead and easy enough in the tenth to allow them to turn what seemed certain defeat into a victory. Monroe pitched the second game and, with proper support, would have won it. While the visitors hit him now and then tolerably hard they realized only three runs in eight innings After Stewart failed to pick up the easy one Shannon rolled at him in the ninth, Monroe weakened and was rapped for a couple of doubles. Damon then took his place and would have saved the game but for a stupid play. Instead of cutting off Twitchell at third on a little grounder of Glenalvin, he threw to first and that little circumstance enabled the Brewers to tie the game up in such a hard knot that it

THE FIRST GAME. At 2 o'clock the teams lined up for the opening struggle. After getting rid of the alvin's men proceeded to take advantage of Wiley Davis's wildness. Nicol walked to first and Weaver sacrificed him to second. Davis hit Hartman with the ball and double steal followed, Sheibeck missing a nice chance to stop the bad work by muff-ing Buckley's throw, which should have retired Nicol by six feet or more. A wild pitch let Nicol in. Twitchell was presented with a base on balls, but was caught stealing second. Hartman getting home on the play. Stafford got a single to center and Glenalvin scored him with a triple to right.

Taylor flew to Motz. With two out in the second Buckley lifted a fly to right, which Twitchel blinded by the sun, failed to get and i was good for three bases. Taylor fumbled Sheibeck's grounder and "Buck" scored. Hogan's fly to left bounced out of Weaver's hands into those of Nicol, an unusual play and a lucky one for the Brewers as it retired the side and saved a run. Milwaukee got a man around in the fourth, when with one out, Stafford hit to left center for three bases and scored on Glenalvin's single. The latter was caught stealing second and Taylor was out from second to first.

With one out in the fourth Stewart's base on balls and Sheibeck's line drive to left for two bases gave Indianapolis a run. Buckley fouled to Hartman and the same individual looked after Hogan's hot grounder, which he sent across to Stafford ahead of the runner. Hogriever's two-Shannon's out at first added another in the fifth to the champions' rather slow accumulation of runs and there was a howl of joy, several howls in fact, when Hogan poked out a three-bagger to right in the seventh inning and tied the score on Davis's fly to Nicol. The next two men were retired without trouble and then it

THAT FATAL TENTH. With one out in the tenth Shannon his to center for a base and McCarthy drove him home with a beauty to left for two bases. Spear threw wild to second in an endeavor to catch Sheibeck, who was runthe "rooters" were delirious. It looked like a sure thing for the champions as the Milwaukee men hadn't scored for six innings and there seemed little prospect of their getting two runs in the tenth. But they did and by good clean hitting, too. They went right after Davis and tied the game up without stopping to take breath. Then they rested for a few moments before administering the knockout blow. When the time came Fred Barnes, the clever little pitcher, put the champions to sleep and the "rooters" rested, but not in peace. Twitchell was the Brewer who started all this trouble. He hadn't been able to hit Davis during the game and his energy was so well expended on the ball in the tenth that he landed on third after hitting over McCarthy's head. Buckley threw low to catch him napping and he scored. Then big Jim Stafford hit to right for two number and the score was tied once more. the visitors were unable to get their hits long fly just out of Hogan's reach, scoring together. The game was delayed half an long fly just out of Hogan's reach, scoring balls in the opening inning Indianapolis could not score. In the last half Shannon let Nicol's grounder get away from him, and Weaver fell onto one of Monroe's slow curves for three bases, scoring the first Milwaukee run. Hartman hit into Motz's hands. Twitchell struck out, and Stafford was out from short to first. It was four innings before Watkins's men could break through. Then Hogan hit to left for three bases, and scored on Monroe's out at first. Shelbeck had gone out on a long foul fly to Twitchell, who made a great run for it, and Hogriever flew to Nicol. This was in the fifth inning, and from that time on the champions picked up runs quite rapidly. Shannon's base on balls, McCarthy's two-bagger by the clubhouse, Motz's single to left, and Stewart's fly to center scored a couple in the sixth. Wood flew to Nicol and Shelbeck forced Motz at second, Hogan bunted and beat it out in the seventh, Monroe was hit by pitcher, Hogriever sacrificed, Shannon walked and McCarthy flew to Nicol, scoring Hogan. Motz flew to Taylor. In the eighth, with two out, Sheibeck hit to the left field fence for three bases, and scored on Hogan's single. A wild pitch let Hogan to second, and he came in on Monroe's hit, which was too hot for Hartman, and when they come too swift for that player they are base hits, and no mistake. Hogriever flew to Twitchell. Shannon's base on balls, a wild pitch and Motz's single to right added an Indianapolis run in the ninth. McCarthy flew to Nicol, and Stewart to Twitchell. Wood got a long single to left center, and sent Motz around. Sheibeck flew to left.

THE NINTH'S DISAPPOINTMENT.

Glenalvin's triple and Taylor's fly gave the Brewers one in the fourth, and singles by Nicol and Weaver, together with Sheibeck's error in letting Twitchell's grounder go right through his legs, added one more in the fifth. Then they failed to do any- and a fast track contributed to the success thing dangerous until the ninth, and the of the races to-day. The free-for-all trot Indianapolis lead was then so big that it never occurred to even the faintest-hearted | Beuzetta, driven by Hickok, was the fa-"fan" that there was a possibility of Mil- vorite, but Fantasy, driven by Geers, won waukee catching up. Borchers started the the race in straight heats. The first heat, ninth with a hit to left. Then Nicol hit in 2:061/2, was the fastest ever trotted in a a deep one to Shannon, who had to throw | race on the Columbus track and the fastbefore fairly recovering himself, and as a result the ball reached Stewart on the second bound. It was an easy chance at this season. Fantasy only equaled her that, but the big captain couldn't pick the former record, but would have broken it ball up somehow, and Borchers was safe. Weaver forced Nicol at second, but Hart-man and Twitchell hit for two bases each, and three runs were in. A base on balls last heat and pushed Fantasy so closely to Stafford mixed matters up decidedly, and Damon went into the box. Glenalvin hit into the young pitcher's hands, and he a nose. Klamath, the favorite in the 2:19 turned as if to throw to third. For some trot, was only able to win the first heat, unfortunate and unaccountable reason he changed his mind, however, and threw to first. That little mistake enabled Milwaukee to tie the game, for Taylor hit to right for two bases, sending two runs in, and Geers, the veteran driver, had a narrow esthen Spear flew to Hogriever. Taylor's hit would never have scored a man from first, and as Damon had Twitchell at third by Woodnut, driven by Grady, stumbled and thirty feet or more, with Sheibeck cover- fell. Red Oak, driven by Geers, was close ing the bag and waiting for the throw, behind, and, being unable to get out of the there was no excuse for his misplay. Indianapolis got a couple of hits in the tenth, but could not score. After Borchers struck his head. Geers struck on his shoulder, out in the last half McCarthy dropped The champions had their customary trou-Nicol's easy fly, and caught Weaver's hard one. Hartman was out from Stewart to Motz, and McDonald called the game on Oak rolled over. He was pretty badly account of darkness. The Milwaukee men shaken up, but will be in the sulky again kicked hard to have it called at the end of the ninth. It was nearly 7 o'clock when it was over. Score:

Dull Events at Brighton. NEW YORK, Aug. 5.-There was a cool breeze blowing through the grand stand at Brighton Beach to-day, and that was about all there was to recommend the racing. The best finish of the day was in the second event, when Ben Ronald and Sedgwick almost made a dead heat of it, the former winning by a nose on the post. Ben Ronald led all the way to the last furlong, when he was challenged by Sedgwick, and had Healy been able to finish he would have won. A mix with whip and bridle lost him the race. In the first race Sir Dixon, jr., was the favorite, but was never in the hunt, Kallirhoe led for half a mile, and then quit, Premier and Marshall taking her place. In the last furlong Doggett sent Marshall to the front, and in a furious drive he won by a head. Tremargo was the favorite for the third race, and won in a romp by four and a half lengths. The Dragon and Illusion were the only starters in the fourth race, and the former had only to gallop to win. Rotterdam was well backed to win the fifth race, but was poorly ridden by Taral, and finished third. Sunnyslope won handily by a length and a half, with Slow Poke in second place. In the sixth Kaiser Ludwig was backed into the place of favorite, although he was but a shade better than Passover in the betting Ludwig jumped into the lead at once, and won very easily. Southerner was the fasecond choice. Flushing led all the way but fell at the last hurdle, and old St. Luke won. Jockey Anderson, who rode Golden Gate in the hurdle race, fell on the back stretch and broke his collar bone. Winners and odds:
